

CyberIX – Modular cyber-insurance and resilience solution for SMEs in the blue economy

Sector: Other - Cybersecurity

Short description of the needs:

SMEs in the blue economy are increasingly dependent on digital systems but often lack the knowledge, tools, and financial capacity to protect themselves from cyber threats. As a result, they are frequent targets of attacks, while regulatory requirements such as NIS2 and DORA are increasing their responsibilities. The main objective is to develop a simple, modular cyber-resilience and insurance solution tailored to SMEs, cities, and startups in coastal and digitalising communities. The solution would combine risk-assessment onboarding, gamified cybersecurity education, automated insurance-premium calculation, and connections to local insurers. Cooperation opportunities include partnerships with development agencies, municipalities, insurers, research institutions, and EU innovation projects to pilot and scale the solution across coastal regions
